All Pastors Express Delight at Enthusiasm of Church-Goers

SEASON SUCCESS

M. E., and U. B. Church Choirs Perform in Eve

Easter of 1934 will long be remembered in Circleville as one of the greatest Easters in recent history. Every church reported record crowds during the entire day, besides those which were in attendance at nightly Holy Week services.

All churches were bedecked with flowers. Two of the largest crowds of the day were reported at Trinity Lutheran church and at the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning. At the former church more than 500 persons took communion; at the latter the church downstairs and upstairs was filled to overflowing. Forty-three Knights Templar attended the Sunday morning service at the Methodist church. The sermon subject at the former church was "Christ's Resurrection and Communion" while Rev. Herman Sayre's was "The Living Christ, Man, and His Liberties."

MANY AT SERVICES

A large number of persons attended the sunrise service at the Methodist church with young people having parts in the program. At the United Brethren church, Rev. T. C. Harper spoke on "Easter in the Heart" with the touching feature of this service being baptism of 19 children, the pastor using sweet peas which were presented to the children. A class of 19 persons was received into the church membership making a total of 23 for the week with several others restored to membership.

The Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. and the Holy Communion and sermon at 10:15 a. m. at St. Philip's Episcopal church were well-attended as was the cantata presented in the afternoon by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Roland E. Heiskell. Mrs. George Bentley was the accompanist.

The subject of Rev. Emil S. Toensmeier of the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning was "Too Good to Be True."

CANTATAS PRAISED

Large audiences, filled Methodist and United Brethren churches in the evening when two beautiful cantatas were sung. The former under the able direction of Mrs. J. P. Moffitt splendidly rendered "The Triumph of the Cross" and "Matthews while the latter sang "The Dawn of Easter" by Ira Wil-

BARROW KILLS TWO

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 2.—Authorities today credited two more murders, both state highway officers, to the ready guns of Clyde Barrow, desperado of the southwest.

Patrolman E. R. Wheeler, 26, and H. D. Murphy, 24, were shot and killed instantly by fusillades from two automatic shotguns when they stopped to investigate a parked automobile on Highway 114.

Scared beside the man believed to be Barrow was a woman whom authorities said was Bonnie Parker, Barrow's cigar-smoking woman companion.

DILLINGER AGAIN

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 2.—Authorities throughout the northwest today were on the alert to stem an expected bank robbery foray by John Dillinger, escaped No. 1 gangster, and his fugitive companion, John Hamilton.

At the same time physicians and hospitals were warned to be on the lookout for either Dillinger, Hamilton or a woman companion, one of whom was believed wounded when the trio fled an apartment hideout here Saturday under protection of sub-machine gun fire.

BOWMAN FACES MURDER TRIAL

Kentuckians Charge Him With Murder; Aide Caught By Officers.

SOMERSET, Ky., April 2.—Early trial for murder in Kentucky appeared likely today for Neal Bowman, captive Ohio prison fugitive, as authorities continued their roundup of his suspected gang accomplices.

Six already are under arrest here, while at Berea, Ky., authorities took into custody Lloyd Bartlow, 28. Officers there said Bartlow identified himself as a former inmate of the Ohio State hospital for criminal insane at Lima, Ohio, escaped from that institution the same day Bowman fled.

Bowman and Bartlow have been together most of the time since their flight, Bartlow allegedly told the officers.

Despite Bowman's denials that he was party to the fatal shooting of George Kaufman at Camp Nelson, Ky., and the wounding of his brother, Will Kaufman, authorities were strong in belief Bowman was involved and they planned to remove him to Lexington jail for safekeeping preparatory to putting the desperado on trial at Nicholasville, Ky., on a murder charge. It was expected that Bowman would be taken to Lexington tonight, possibly by train.

PROBE 2 DEATHS

COSHOCKTON, April 2.—Additional details were expected to be unfolded today in the eerie and weird "grave-yard probe" conducted by Coshockton officials which has resulted in the arrest of a 43-year-old mother, Mrs. Amelia Rivers Webb, in connection with the mysterious deaths of her two children.

Mrs. Webb, who is a sister of the late Mrs. Rivers, brothers Alva and Verne, remembered from a generation ago as "the toughest pair of outlaws ever at large in Coshockton county," was taken into custody Saturday night. Her arrest climaxed a two-year investigation which had centered in a lonely grave-yard near West Lafayette.

FIFTY OF AIMEE'S FOLLOWERS HURT

LONDON, April 2.—Fifty excursionists, members of Aimee Semple McPherson's Four Square Gospel group in England, were injured today when a crowded train from Nottingham to London ploughed into the rear of a light switching engine at Kilburn, on the outskirts of London.

The excursionists were enroute to an Easter Monday service in Albert Hall. Fifteen were taken to hospitals, some cut by broken glass and others scalded by burning water from the switch engine's locomotive. Those who were unhurt fell on their knees and offered thanks of their safety.

New Relief Plan Ready for State

COLUMBUS, April 2.—The wheels began turning today in Ohio's new relief machinery, set up under the re-vamped policy of the federal emergency administration.

Supplanting the civil works program, which passed out of existence last Saturday after having been in operation since November, the new plan was to provide work for only 32,000 Ohioans. A total of 93,000 were on the payroll of the state civil works administration when its activities were brought to a close Saturday.

The revamped relief program inaugurated today was put into effect in 79 counties of the state. Nine counties, classified as rural areas, were omitted from participation.

Selection of the 32,000 to remain on the work payroll under the new plan was based on need. Only those considered as cases of dire distress were carried over.

Although Ohio has been allotted $3,500,000 for expenditure under the new relief policy, only about $1,664,000 will be directed on work projects. The remaining sum has been set aside for direct relief.

WILL BE ADJUSTED

In most of the counties, according to Maj. E. O. Braught, executive director, there will be no change in the number of men and women on the payroll.

MAYOR ON TRIAL

ZANESVILLE, April 2.—Selection of a jury for the trial of Mayor William P. Wetherald here on charges of malfeasance proceeded at a snail's pace today in common pleas court.

A jury panel of 12 men and 12 women had been called and only two were asked to be sworn. The others had been questioned by the opposing attorneys.

A new development occurred in the case, however, when the complainant against the mayor filed charges of malfeasance against City Solicitor C. E. Leasure as Wetherald's trial was getting underway.

Chase of Nearly Two Years Ends as Chicagoan Goes Into Custody.

AGED MAN BROKEN

Order for Arrest Comes As Dramatic Climax

ISTANBUL, April 2.—An ancient jail in old Stamboul opened its gates today for Samuel Insull, the modern man without a country, who for nearly two years has led the United States government a chase over almost half the world.

Arrest of the 74-year-old financier, under indictment in Chicago for violation of the federal bankruptcy laws, was ordered by Prosecutor Kenan Bey upon instructions from the Turkish cabinet at Angora, the capital. Insull was taken into custody at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon (U. S. a. m. E. S. T.).

Alone in the Grand Hotel de Londres, the fugitive Chicagoan was taken into custody.

APPEARS AGED

His face blanched while officers told him he must go to jail, his shoulders sagged and he appeared old and broken. He seemed to those who saw him as he was taken off to prison to have aged ten years since morning.

Arrest of Insull came as a dramatic climax to three days of uncertainty. Turkish officials had been uncertain what to do with him. Insull had been uncertain as to what his fate was to be.

ISTANBUL, April 2.—With his back to the wall, a decision of the Turkish government to turn him over to the can authorities, Insull making a last ditch effort to avert being returned to his native land.

Expedition Seeking Source of Solomon's Wealth

EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE

PROROK DINING WITH DESERT CHIEFS

Seeking the fabulous Lost Land of Ophir, whence King Solomon is believed to have derived the great wealth that made him "exceed all the Kings of the earth for riches," Count Byron de Prorok, U. S. explorer, and a party of scientists are braving the wilds of Abyssinia in the unexplored region between Lake Tsana and the Blue Nile. The base of operations is Addis Ababa, capital of Abyssinia and seat of Emperor Haile Selassie, Lion of Judah, who claims direct descent from Menelik, son of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. The expedition expects to find valuable data of early Nile civilizations and traces of pre-historic man in the spot that many scientists contend is the cradle of the human race.

TIGER' MANAGER ENTERS HOSPITAL

LAKELAND, Fla., April 2.—Mickey Cochran, peppery catcher-manager of the Detroit Tigers, lay on a cot in Merrel memorial hospital today while physicians sought to determine whether it would be necessary for him to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Cochran was taken to the hospital yesterday after he had experienced another attack of the abdominal pains which alarmed him Saturday just before his Tigers engaged the Brooklyn Dodgers at Orlando. Yesterday's attackers at Orlando, Clearwater, where the Tigers met the Newark Bears, and Mickey rushed to Lakeland immediately.

A partial examination of Cochran last night failed to disclose any signs of appendicitis, the physicians said, but further examinations to discover the nature of his ailment will be made today.

Cochran's friends were hopeful that his pains might be the result of nothing more serious than a strained muscle, sustained while batting fungoes.

Training Camp Notes

ORLAND, Fla., April 2.—The Brooklyn Dodgers were to play the Philadelphia Athletics here again today and the good townsfolk were all set for another afternoon of laughs. The two teams put on an exhibition game yesterday that was a comical example of how the national game ought not to be played. Both clubs made frequent mistakes and, all in all, performed in the manner of semi-pros, oh yes, the Mackmen won, 5 to 4.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 2.—The Yankees were on their way north today and the sole topic of conversation among the boys was the phenomenal spring hitting of the ancient Babe Ruth, the guy who takes an infinite delight in confounding the experts—baseball and health. Supposedly all through the Babe hung up a grand average of .429 in the spring games concluded at St. Petersburg, yesterday. The mark represents the heaviest spring hitting he has done since he was a freshman pitcher with the Red Sox years and years ago. The Yanks play the Baltimore Orioles here today.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 2.—The New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians start their trek northward with the third game of their 14 game series here today. Each team now holds one decision. The Giants flashed their best of the spring at New Orleans yesterday to win by a 2 to 0 score. The Terry-men made a brilliant triple play in the seventh inning.

COOPER IN LEAD

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., April 2.—A new course record had been set up here today by Light Horse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, who made a sub-par round of 64 to take the lead at the half way mark in the annual Cavalier open championship with a 36 hole total of 135.

Two shots behind Cooper was Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., while Ky Laffoon, of Denver, Saturday's medalist, marked up a total of 138.

Back of these pacemakers with scores of 142 were: Ver. Bobby Cruikshank, Richmond, Va.; and Wild Bill Melhorn, of Louisville, Ky. Horton Smith, of Joplin, Ill., and Tommy Armour, of Chicago, 501 totals of 143.

Other scores were: Densmore Shute, Philadelphia, 144; Craig Wood, Deal, N. J.; Benny Loving, Petersburg, Va.; and Johnny Mears, Garden City, tied with 145; Victor Ghezzi, New York, 146; Frank Walsh, New York; Bill Kaiser, St. Louis; Jimmy Hines, Timber Point, Long Island; and Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., chalked up 147.

MORGAN'S RAID

The following report of one taken verbatim et literatim, will answer for a specimen: This soldier, it must be borne in mind, has an impediment in his speech, and when the rush was made for our new position, tried to make his "peace" first, and did it in this fashion: "O-o-o L-l-lord, p-p-paradon my s-s-ins, and f-f-forgive me for n-not p-praying, f-f-faster, b-b-cause I s-s-stutter."

The "rebs" were getting away as fast as they could on a road leading in a different direction from the one they intended to travel, flying away toward the mountains. In their retreat, and in full view of us, they set fire to the depot and other public buildings in the village of Berlin, lying at the foot of the ridge and about nine hundred yards from where we were posted. Our battle-field will therefore from this circumstance, be known to fame as the battle of Berlin Heights.

We fortunately lost no men in this engagement, the only damage done being inflicted on the enemy by our skirmishers. Berlin Heights was not a very sanguinary battle, truly, but yet more important in its strategic results than many a bloodier field. By checking the enemy at this place, his course was changed, and thus the M. & C. railroad was saved, and the mounted men in pursuit were enabled to overtake him, and by concentrating, drive him to the alternative of giving battle, or attempting to escape by the shortest route.

He chose the latter, and tried to cross at Euffington Island on the Ohio, but was met by the gunboats in the river, and so hemmed in by Hobson's and Judah's cavalry, that he was compelled to surrender the greater portion of his command and only escaped himself with about 650 followers, by stealing his way through, losing all his artillery and camp equipment.

Havana Third Capital

Havana is the third city to serve as the capital of Cuba. Baracoa, on the northern coast of the island, near its easternmost tip, was the first capital, established by Diego de Velazquez in 1512. Two years later, Velazquez transferred the headquarters to Santiago, which remained the second capital until 1531. Meanwhile, the original Havana was founded in 1514, near the site of what is now known as the town of Batabano, on the south coast and about 50 miles from Havana. This infant city bore the lengthy title of "San Cristobal de la Habana."

Martin Insull in U. S. Net

While different branches of the U. S. Government wrangled over him, one trying to get him into the country to answer embezzlement charges, the other trying to keep him out as an unwanted alien, Martin Insull, brother of the elusive Samuel, is shown at Detroit with immigration officials who held him at the border. He was later returned to Chicago for trial.

INSULL BEWILDERED

Emerging from the poorly furnished room of the third rate hotel in which he spent the night under guard, Insull refused to make a statement after the conference. Appearing bewildered and dazed, he carried himself like a hunted man.

"Please excuse me from talking," was all he would say. Weaving through a crowd of curious onlookers, police took the white-haired Insull to a waiting motor car, and drove him to the Grand Hotel De Londres, a much better establishment than that in which he spent the night.

Police accompanied him to his new room, and closed and bolted the doors.

The governor of Istanbul and the prosecutor awaited formal word from Ankara, the capital, ordering them to turn Insull over to American officials.

"I am awaiting receipt of documents from the Turkish cabinet," Prosecutor Kenan Bey declared. "When I get them I will decide in co-operation with the court

Old Car Good Enough?

Say, just ride in a '34

YOU'LL change your mind about holding on to the old car the very first time you get behind the wheel of a Nineteen Thirty-four. Are these new jobs smooth and smart and comfortable? And can they "travel?"

Even if you aren't going to buy at present, you should read the automobile advertisements appearing in this newspaper. It's an excellent way to keep up to date on what the spring salons are showing. There are important developments in styling and engineering — interesting features pictured and described — which contribute to new riding and driving ease, new safety, beauty, and e-c-o-n-o-m-y.

Economy is an important point in these messages from leading automobile manufacturers... Exceptional values, long life, unusual freedom from repairs, low fuel and oil consumption! Economy is the reason they advertise in this newspaper, for here they can reach you and many other logical and intelligent car buyers at a minimum cost per person.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper as an economy measure. They save time, energy, money... and even now are pointing out that owning a luxurious, up-to-the-minute motor car is often more economical than maintaining an old one.

IMPROVED BUSINESS SHOWN BY N. & W.

Reflecting the generally improved condition of business, the Norfolk and Western Railway experienced during 1933 a marked increase in both freight and passenger traffic, and in turn, a gain in income, according to the railroad's annual report made public today.

Revenue freight traffic handled by the railroad last year increased 16.36 per cent, or 4,980,656 tons—a marked contrast to the 1932 figures, which showed a drop of 22 per cent under 1931 business. Passengers transported last year increased 74,922 or 9.66 per cent—the first gain in 10 years—as compared with a decrease of 417,093 in 1932. A drastic reduction in basic rates, improved economic conditions and a favorable weather for bus travel, are the reasons named in the report for the jump in travel by train.

BOOST OVER 6 MILLIONS

The railway reports 1933 gross operating revenues of $69,262,890.85, an increase of $6,487,279.79 or 10.33 per cent over 1932, while operating expenses increased 3.7 per cent. Net income for the year amounted to $21,351,448.37, which represents a gain of 34.54 per cent over the previous year.

Dividends of $8.00 per share were paid on the common stock, but in the judgment of the directors, the report says, "the year's operations warranted an extra dividend of $2.00 per share, which was charged against earnings for 1933 and paid on March 19 of this year."

N. & W. taxes last year amounted to $7,340,000, an increase of $140,000 over 1932. Federal taxes increased $355,000, due principally to a capital stock tax imposed by the National Industrial Recovery Act. On the other hand, state, county and municipal taxes decreased $215,000, due to lower levies or assessments.

The annual statement reveals there were 887 employees on the pension roll at the close of the year, a net increase of 49. The average annual pension amounted to $729.60. The N. & W. appropriated $737,178.19 in December, 1933, to take care of pensions of employees retired during the year for as long as they may live.

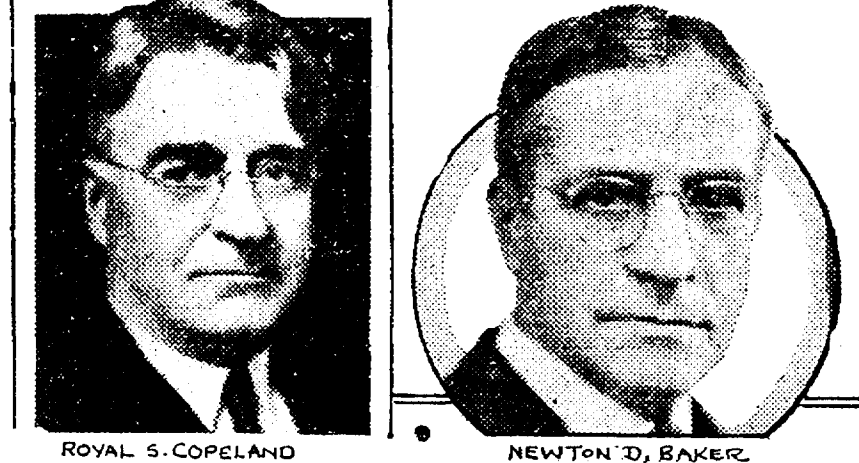

It may not be too soon to begin assigning "weeks" of various kinds for 1934.

NEW WEEK RECORD MADE BY OHIO HOLC

Another record for number and volume of loans closed during a single week was made by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in Ohio for the week ending Friday, March 30th, according to report of State Manager Henry C. Brunner, given out today.

The report shows 1826 loans, with a total loan value of $5,632,254.63 during the week. Of this amount $5,119,600.00 was disbursed in the Corporation's 4 per cent tax exempt bonds exchanged with former mortgages, and $512,654.63 paid in cash to County Treasurers for back taxes, for accrued interest on the bonds, necessary repairs, attorney's fees, and appraiser's fees.

The total number of loans closed by the Corporation in Ohio to date is revealed to be 25170, with a loan value of $77,524,873.49.

son under the leadership of Rev. T. C. Harper. Hunter Chambers accompanied the Methodist choir while Miss Virginia Harper played for the United Brethren group.

Many expressions of appreciation were received by directors and members of both choirs at the conclusion of the presentations. Mrs. Moffitt was presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers, a gift of the Zelma Guild of the church at the conclusion of her choir's performance.

While soloists of the Methodist choir received many plaudits for their work, the performance of the entire choir in the dramatic and difficult choruses showed excellent training. Attacks and releases were done with perfect precision, reflecting the work of the director. Solo parts were done by Robert Bury, of Columbus, Glenn Frank, H. Kline, Jr., Miss Kathryn Marion, Mrs. Edwin Bach, Herbert Hammel, and John Hegele. The work of Mr. Chambers at the organ was excellent.

Many compliments were also paid members of the United Brethren choir. Individual parts were sung by Charles Kirkpatrick, Miss Nellie Denman, Mrs. Fannie Greeno, Ray Bery, Miss Lucile Kirkwood, James Trimmer, and Howard Greeno. Miss Mary May Haswell, a guest soloist, sang "Jerusalem Awake" by Wilson. Miss Virginia Harper, one of the most talented of the city's accompanists, deserves much praise for her work in making the cantata a success.

Trinity Lutheran church's Sunday evening service was in charge of the younger people with the intermediate choir, directed by Mrs. George L. Troutman, providing the music.

The program rendered by the Calvary Evangelical church young ladies' choir Sunday evening follows:

Anthem, "Oh Paradise," Geibel.
Anthem, "Christ is Risen," Clifton.
Anthem, "Christ is Risen Today," Lindsey.
Anthem, "Christ Our Passover," McPhail.
Offertory.
"Melody in F" by Rubenstein, violin solo by Eva Mae Kanode, accompanied by Miss Minnie Wilkerson.
Anthem, "Praise Ye the Lord," Lorenz.
Anthem, "A Dream of Paradise," Gray.
Anthem, "Christ of Calvary," Holton.
Anthem, "Calvary," Rodney.
Rev. C. W. Ruhlman's sermon subject, Sunday morning, during another impressive service was "Fellowship With the Risen Christ."

SCHEDULE HEARING

The Ohio supreme court will decide the constitutionality of the recorder's term extender at hearing on April 18. If the extender is found legal Mrs. Mary G. Morris, incumbent, will receive two additional years to her term. If not a primary election for the office will be held this fall.

Authorities exonerated the driver.

Mr. Edwards was taken to the hospital at 1:30 a. m. suffering with a fractured skull, broken legs and ribs. Although fatally hurt he was conscious enough to talk to Lancaster authorities after the accident.

Besides Mrs. Hurdle of this city, he is survived by three brothers and two other sisters. His widow lives in Bellefontaine.

TWO ARE FINED

An automobile accident west of the Scioto river bridge at midnight, Saturday, resulted in Harrison Meadows, 22, of Chillicothe R. 4, being fined $100 and costs and Charles Ramsey, 25, Wayne-twp., being fined $25 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady, Monday.

Meadows was charged with driving while intoxicated and Ramsey with intoxication.

They were arrested by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Miller Fissell after the car driven by Meadows went over an embankment near the Crites filling station.

Both were committed to the county jail for non-payment.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., April 2.—An automobile accident that resulted in the drowning of six young persons in Salt Creek near Lincoln, Ill., today disclosed the secret marriage of two of the victims.

Coroner Albert Aherns, investigating the plunge of a small sedan from Salt Creek bridge, learned that Miss Mildred Wurth, 20, and Fred McGowan, 25, of Lincoln, had been married last Aug. 3.

Two persons survived the tragedy. One was Jesse Bechtel, driver.

Holiday excursions and generally favorable driving conditions for the most part of the day drew heavy traffic to the highways and resulted in the high accident toll.

Endurance

The deed of endurance determination can always win the admiration and applause of men, for in it is revealed a quality needed in every man's life story. To be skillful or shrewd or fortunate may be the privilege of the few, but to carry on against odds and to stick it out when weakness invites surrender is the sort of conduct that life asks of every man. Those who have watched the flying men make records of endurance have paid at last their principal tribute to the men and their courage rather than to machines and the skill that has kept them in the air. The final achievement is a triumph of human courage over the drag of physical necessities, a victory of the spirit over the world in which it lives.

Life itself is an endurance test, whose goal is uncertain and whose reward is in doubt. Few of us could surely determine its purpose or foresee its outcome. Yet with few exceptions, men take up its challenge, determined to do the difficult thing and the daring thing, despite the countless opportunities for surrender to ease and indifference that come to them. Refueled now and then with fresh hope and the encouraging contact of friendly encouragement, they spend their strength to the limit to leave behind a record of achievement. This is the spirit that has lifted man from the dust of which he is made and given wings to his spirit. This makes him master of his world and of his own destiny.

Many a home budget has been knocked into a cocked hat by twins.

"Expect the Unexpected"

USE your horn; that's what it's there for," is the advice of an experienced driver to motorists in an effort to prevent automobile accidents. He urges them not to steal up from behind people without some signal of this kind. They are to use it whenever the slightest occasion demands it.

But they should also be urged to use their heads, and what is supposed to be in them. They should give evidence also of some consideration for the rights of others on the road; they should keep in mind that public highways are not private lanes, and that someone is always likely to drive into their path from some side street or road.

There are many things which motorists must keep in mind if automobile accidents are to be averted. In the speech of the motorist there ought to be no such word as "unexpected." The unexpected is the very thing they ought to be expecting. It ought to be as clear as day and as inevitable as winter's snow to all of us that driving a motor car is not only by painstaking and responsible persons, able and willing always to give their most serious attention to the business in hand.

"KNAVE'S GIRL"

By JOAN CLAYTON

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

"For a moment," Julian said, "I was afraid that you were going to tell me that you were not free."

"I mean," observed Haverholt, "that you aren't free to walk to Clark." He seated himself beside her, said, "You'd better listen to the rest of my story, sweetheart. Marthe and Clark quarrelled over you."

"Over me," she echoed. "The bust-up came when Marthe told Clark that she was sure you weren't my niece. Clark refused to believe such a calumny and so—"

Haverholt spread his hands. "That's not true."

"How did you find it out?" demanded Patricia, only too certain now that Julian spoke the truth, but fighting to the last.

"Marthe told me. I've been talking to her on the phone—quite a conversation that!"

"Why should Marthe call you?" "She had a couple of reasons," observed Haverholt, delighting in this conversation. "For one, I think she would like to make me Clark's successor—perhaps I shouldn't say it but I do. For another, she had hopes that I might give her the goods on you."

"Don't talk like that," interposed Patricia in sharp and wounded tones.

"I must. You've got to face the facts, Patricia; you might as well do it now as later. Marthe is positive that she had met you somewhere under a different name."

Where was it, by the way?" "At Eileen Scott's," muttered the girl mechanically.

"The pork packer's widow," mused Haverholt. "I remember, I met you there myself. Too bad that Marthe's memory is so good. Still, at that, it might be better!"

Patricia hardly heard him. She felt tired, cold. The situation had got beyond her. She experienced a kind of wretched wonder that she who had been so proud, who had wanted so passionately a life of graciousness and dignity, should be involved in this. Incredible that she should feel the truth.

She said bitterly, "I hate that girl."

"Marthe," remarked Julian mildly, "Marthe doesn't seem to care for you."

Patricia clasped her hands together, looked up at the man from beneath a drift of shining hair, seeming in her simple, round-necked dress so pathetic and so youthful that Julian felt his own gleeful triumph lessen.

"What can I do now?" she whispered.

"Sit tight," he said promptly, yet a shade uncomfortably. "If Clark telephones—and he's bound to—refuse to see him."

"No," she put in suddenly, valiantly. "There's only one thing to do. I'm going to tell Clark the truth."

"That won't help now."

"It might help me."

"Almost any man," remarked Haverholt deliberately, "hates to be made a fool of. Some men, if it is put to them right, will overlook a breach of morals. I've never met with any who would forgive being made a fool. Clark broke with Marthe defending you. How do you suppose he's going to feel when he learns that Marthe, whatever her motives were, told the truth about you?"

"She didn't! She couldn't!" cried Patricia in anguish. "Nobody knows the truth except you and I."

"Sometimes even I find it hard to credit," suggested Haverholt blandly. "It seems fantastic some-

"I meant," observed Haverholt, "that you aren't free to walk to Clark."

how that our arrangement is as innocent as it is. I marvel at your confidence, I really do. Now, I for one, would never expect anyone to accept the simple truth. But, then, he ended, "I'm worldly minded."

"You—?" stammered Patricia, "you—?" She broke off, resumed in a trembling voice, "The trouble with you is that you don't want Clark to believe me."

"Certainly I don't," he agreed. "Why should I desire the course of young love to run smooth? When the time is ripe for me to put a spoke in your wheel, be sure I'll put it there. I'm not rooting for Clark. I'm prejudiced, naturally. You sweet little simpleton, I want you myself."

"Please leave," said Patricia, "Please leave."

He obeyed. There was only one thing to do. The girl rose and went to the telephone, dialed Clark's number and then, without waiting for a response, replaced the receiver and burst into tears. There was only one thing to do. She could not do it.

Later downstairs, Haverholt asked her politely if she had heard from Clark.

"He telephoned," she admitted, facing him with hostile, defiant eyes.

"Do you plan to see him?" "That's my affair, not yours."

"Since I'm bound to learn sooner or later you might as well say or have you fallen into the habit of secrecy?"

"All right then," she replied white-lipped, her chin held high. "I'm dining with him tonight."

"So you haven't told him," commented Haverholt in an odd sort of satisfaction.

"I'm going to tell him tonight."

"I hope, my dear, that you have a lovely evening," said Haverholt, regarding her. "Too bad I won't be around to pick up the pieces."

"Your absence won't break my heart," replied Patricia frigidly, turning at once to leave.

"You don't dislike me that much," the man said quickly.

"I dislike you as much as I possibly can."

"Is that fair?" "I don't know what's fair anymore," she admitted, suddenly frantic. "I know I'm in a dreadful, dreadful mess and you don't care and you won't help me out."

"Why should I?" he inquired levelly. She did not reply. Julian shrugged, said indifferently, "I'll give you a suggestion anyhow."

"What is it?" she asked sullenly. "Don't meet Clark at the house tonight. You see," he explained it airily, "I'm dining with Marthe. It might be awkward if the four of us met on the steps."

Patricia telephoned to Clark and requested that he pick her up in the lobby of the Ritz Hotel.

Patricia sat waiting in the tiny, luxurious lobby of the smartest hotel in New York. She wore a simple dinner dress, covered by a short velvet wrap collared in sable. Pearls glowed against the rich brown of the fur, her skin dazzling white. Women passing glanced at her, nodded approvingly; men's eyes lingered. She presented a picture of youth and beauty, made more charming by her little air of dignity, her serene acceptance of the admiring glances that came her way. But, she was not confident, she was not happy, she was not exulting in these surroundings that a short year before would have seemed the ultimate in luxury. The long slim hands that held her wrap were trembling slightly and her mouth felt dry.

After a while she saw Clark step from the revolving door, blink a little against the light, look around for her. Their eyes met. Clark smiled; Patricia smiled in answer. Suddenly everything in her world was right.

Presently they were seated at a round, candle-light table in the midst of other low-voiced, self-absorbed diners, and Clark was busy with the menu card.

"Soup, Patricia?" "No, I think I'll start with mutton."

"So shall I then. Honeydew mutton for two," said Clark, glancing at the hovering waiter. "How about quab?" he asked the girl. "I'd like that."

Neglect Is the Hazard Of Maternity

Science Stresses the Importance of Prenatal Care

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

FROM TIME to time I have referred to a report by the New York Academy of Medicine relating to the present high death rate in maternity.

This survey has aroused a great deal of discussion in news papers and medical journals.

The study covered a period of three years and included a careful survey of the facts surrounding two thousand and forty-one maternal deaths that occurred in New York City.

"Of this number," according to the report, "one thousand three hundred and forty-three, or sixty-five and eight-tenths per cent would have been preventable, if the care of the woman had been proper in all respects."

"Prenatal Care"

Though child-birth is no longer the dreaded ordeal of former years, too little attention is placed upon the need of thorough prenatal care.

I am confident that many of the tragedies of child-birth can be traced to neglect before the baby is born. In many instances, no doubt, the expectant mother was ignorant of the necessity for care during this period.

In consequence she was not given the proper advice and instructions for this important part of her experience.

What is meant by "prenatal care"? By this is meant care of the mother during the months that she is pregnant. Too often no physical examination is made. The young woman is allowed to proceed with her pregnancy, not knowing the many dangers that may confront her.

The weight of the mother should be carefully watched during the prenatal period. No woman should gain more than twenty-five pounds during the nine months of pregnancy. An excessive increase in weight may be nature's warning of some complication.

I have repeatedly stated, the urine should be examined at monthly intervals, and often just before delivery. It cannot overemphasize the value of periodic urinalysis. It often is the only means of recognizing certain complications which, if detected at an early stage, can be successfully handled by proper medication and treatment.

Diet Important, Too

During the prenatal period, the expectant mother should become familiar with the hygiene of pregnancy. Her diet should be simple, nutritious and well balanced. Overeating should be avoided. When nausea and vomiting are present, food should be taken at more frequent intervals but in small amounts.

It is wise to avoid overexertion, lack of sleep and long automobile or train rides. The clothing should be loose and warm. A maternity corset may be worn. Comfortable and well-fitted shoes with low heels and broad toes will promote comfort. The attending physician should be seen at least once a month in the first half of the prenatal period and twice a month in the second half.

I have endeavored to point out a few of the high lights of what is included in prenatal care. At a later date, I shall write about "post partum" care, care after the baby arrives.

Jamaica is a beautiful island of springs and streams. There are numerous hot and thermal springs. The warm salt spring at Milk river is probably the most remarkable of its kind in the world. Jamaica is one of the magnetic points in all the enchanting islands of the fascinating West Indies. The scenery is natural. Some of the peaks are more than 5,000 feet high. Montserrat and Kingston are the ports of Jamaica.

Marian Martin Pattern

Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included.

PATTERN 9965

It's just nothing at all to make—and most effective when finished! This little cotton frock is typical of the new warm weather fashions that smart housewives are making. The entire back is cut in one piece—how very simple! The front bodice revers are faced with contrast and follow the deep V of the neck to meet the upward point of the waistline. Every woman will find this treatment of the waistline, flattering, youthful and slenderizing. There's a pocket, too, included with the pattern that might be applied. Choose cottons that are gay!

Patterns 9965 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 yards 36 inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

ORDER YOUR COPY OF THE NEW MARIAN MARTIN SPRING PATTERN BOOK—a practical Spring sewing guide, offering stunning models for all occasions for grown-ups, juniors and youngsters, and for the woman who needs slenderizing lines.

PRICE OF NEW BOOK, FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Herald Pattern Department, 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THESE Scotch stories should be barred by this time, but this one might have happened to anybody so here goes.

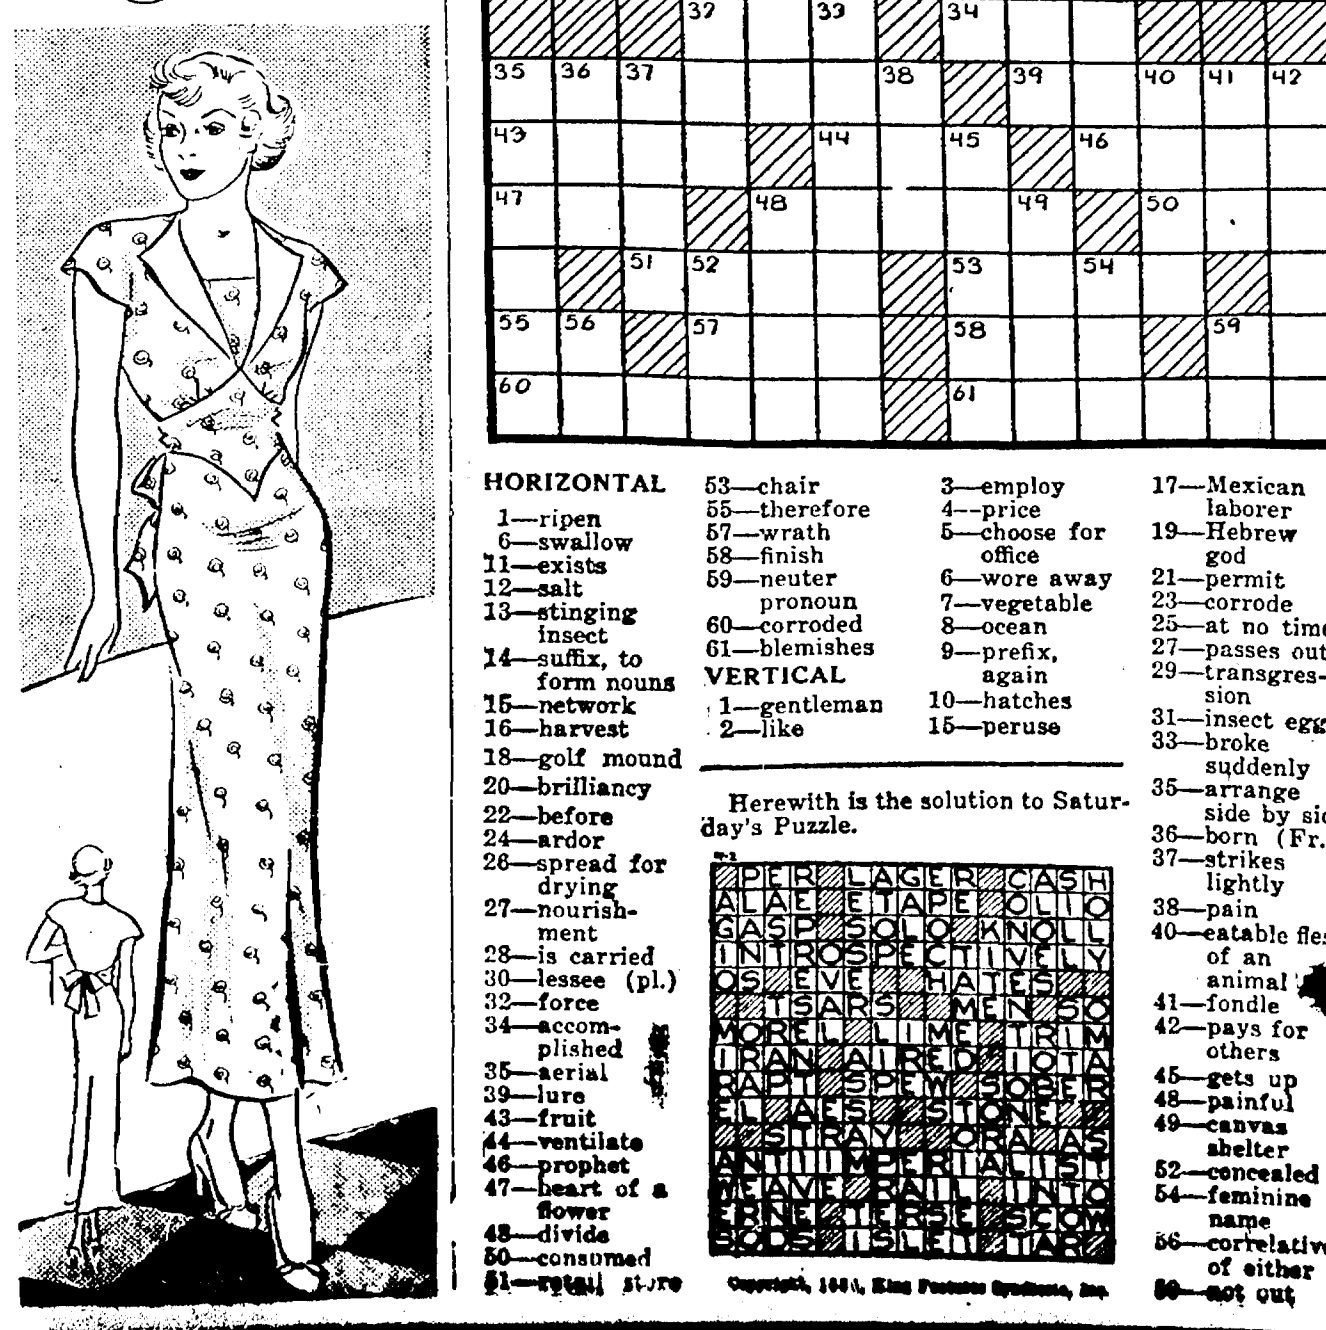

McTavish was very proud of his golf. One day he missed a stroke and yelled at his caddy: "Counfound you, boy, you made me make that putt!"

"I didn't do nothin', sir," replied the frightened caddy. "Yes, you did; it was all the fault of your hiccup."

"But I didn't hiccup, sir."

"I know you didn't. It's the first time you've missed since we started, and I allowed for it, you idiot!"

LEGAL NOTICE IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO

No. 17105 The Buckeye State Building and Loan Company, Plaintiff.

Lena Brust, et al. Defendants. The defendant, Tabitha Y. Hunsicker, whose last known place of residence was Circleville, Ohio, but whose present place of residence is unknown to the plaintiff and cannot with reasonable diligence be ascertained, will take notice that on or about the 26th day of October, 1933, The Buckeye State Building and Loan Company filed its petition in the Common Pleas Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, being case No. 17105 upon the docket of said Court, against her and others, praying among other things for judgment against the defendants, Lena Brust and Tabitha Y. Hunsicker, in the sum of $8,041.80, with interest from October 20, 1932, on a certain promissory note and for the foreclosure of a mortgage against the following real estate situated in the Townships of Monroe, County of Pickaway, in the State of Ohio, and described as follows:

Beginning at three Black Walnuts, northwest corner to Survey No. 3714; thence with a line of said survey No. 3714 south 77 degrees east 21 chains to a white oak stump; thence north 25 1/2 degrees east 27 chains to a stone in the south side of the Yanketown and Circleville Turnpike; thence south 62 1/2 degrees east 20 chains to a stake in the south side of said Turnpike; thence south 15 1/2 degrees west 22 chains to a white oak stump; thence south 23 degrees west 13.35 chains to a Black Hawk on the east bank of Biskirk's run; thence south 8 degrees east 10 chains to a double sycamore on the east side of the said run; thence south 2 degrees east 7.80 chains to an elm on the west side of said run; thence south 31 1/2 degrees east 4.60 chains to a stake formerly a large Walnut stump; thence south 57 degrees east 3.50 chains to the bank of Decker creek and in the north of said line; thence south 41 degrees east 15 chains to the center of said creek; thence with the center of said creek south 10 degrees west 3 chains; thence south 83 degrees west 7.80 chains; thence north 76 degrees east 10 chains to a stone; white oak and ash in the Western line of said survey No. 3714; thence with said line north 24 degrees east 20.20 chains to an ash and two white oaks, north-east corner to survey No. 472; thence north 13 degrees east 1.50 chains to the place of beginning, containing one hundred and fifty-four (154) acres and one hundred and seven (107) poles more or less, of which 153 acres and 75 poles are in Survey No. 3714 and 1 acre and 107 poles are in Survey No. 472, being the same premises set off for the said Mary A. Cirkwell as her dower and afterwards was sold by a Sheriff to Mary E. Cirkwell and Winfield S. Cirkwell, subject to said dower, and alleging that said dower is the first and best lien against said real estate; that the conditions of said mortgage have been broken by failure of the defendants to make payments on said note according to its terms; that each and all of the defendants have or claim to have some right title or interest in and to said real estate; and further praying that said real estate be sold and plaintiff's claim first paid from the proceeds; that each and all of the defendants may be required to do up in said case any right, title or interest which they or any one of them may have or claim to have in or to said real estate, or be forever barred from asserting the same; and that plaintiff may have all other and further relief to which it may be entitled either in law or in equity.

Consider, then, the consternation of the A. F. of L. when Leo Wolman was appointed its "Impartial Chairman." In the opinion of Bill Green and other A. MRS. THURN'S QUILT IS NOW ON DISPLAY

The beautiful Autumn Leaf Pattern Quilt of Mrs. George O. Thurn is now on display in the show window of Mason Bros. Furniture store.

When Mrs. Thurn conducted The Herald Cooking School in 1933 she received a large number of pieces for making a quilt from the women of Circleville and vicinity who attended the school. This was greatly appreciated by Mrs. Thurn.

During the recent school conducted by Mrs. Thurn many of these women were disappointed in not seeing the completed quilt but there was a reason. The quilt practically completed was at her home in South Bend, Indiana. She had written Mr. Thurn to send the quilt to her in Circleville but Mr. Thurn was out of town and did not return in time to send the quilt so it would reach her while in Circleville, much to her regret.

She received the quilt later and had it on display at Chillicothe when conducting a school in that city. Knowing that the women of Circleville were anxious to see the completed quilt she sent it to Circleville with Mr. Hermann, manager of The Herald to be displayed, for she wanted the women to see how beautiful it looked.

Arrangements were made by Mason Bros. local furniture dealer, who have arranged their window to display bed room furniture and the quilt adorns the bed. It will be on display through Saturday when it will be returned to Mrs. Thurn at South Bend, Ind.

Poor Health When 80, Hale on Reaching 100

Greensburg, Ind.—Twenty years ago Thomas Shields, of Adams, made his own coffin of walnut, lined with satin, and fitted with silver handles, and stored it away in a condemned building. Shortly afterward the building burned, destroying all contents, including the coffin.

Shields was eighty years old at the time and was in impaired health. He recently celebrated his one hundredth birthday anniversary and is in good health. He is the oldest voter in Decatur county. He lives with his son.

Minister Buys Dresser; Finds It's Really Bar

Oklahoma City.—An Oklahoma City minister recently objected strenuously when he bought a second-hand dresser and discovered he had purchased a genuine anti-Volstead bar.

The furniture dealer removed the bar from the piece. A copper container, set in behind the mirror, with the spout at the bottom, could be filled and the liquor drawn at the spigot.

Strolling Arm in Arm Bad Behavior in China

Canton, China.—Bicycle riding, the motion picture and arm-in-arm strolls are moral issues in several Chinese cities. Here women are prohibited from riding bicycles; one district forbids film plays, another censors close-up embraces on the screen. In Shanghai couples who link arms while walking on the street face a $2 fine for the first offense on a charge of "bad behavior in public places."

One Nickel Saved Is a Team Earned

Holden, Okla.—When Lloyd Burris received a nickel for good grade in school he purchased some corn and planted it, growing several bushels. Part of the crop he traded for a pig, which ate the surplus corn and grew into a hog. The hog was traded for a calf, which was bartered for a pair of colts. Burris, now a farmer, has a dandy team of horses which cost him the nickel.

Our Loan No. 18-0650—had done hot-house and garden work for six years. His chance came when he learned that a certain green-house was in financial difficulty and could be bought for $500. After discussing the matter with The City Loan, he borrowed the money and bought the plant. Since then he has obtained several loans from The City Loan to expand his fast-growing business, so that today he has the largest greenhouse in his county and enjoys a substantial income.
